Three more Christian historical western romances by popular author Emma Ashwood. The Texas Cowboys Heart Emma always dreamed of marrying a cowboy. Now she was doing it for real, she was heading west to be a mail order bride. David seemed charming enough, but pretty soon revelations starting coming out that Emma wasnt aware of before she left home. Financial problems, missing cattle, strange oil men and rustlers are all discussed. Disaster after disaster seems to strike in quick succession, so much so that all thoughts of a wedding are pushed to the back of Emmas mind. Yet Emma finds herself drawn closer and closer to David, but will they have the strength and the resources to get their lives on track and find everlasting happiness? Heading West to the Heroic Cowboy Mary Riders mother is dying. On her deathbed she confesses to her only daughter that her father isnt dead. He headed west to seek his fortune. Mary decides that there is little left for her in the city and that she should marry out west, not only to find love but to find what became of her father. However, being a mail order bride wasnt really the way she dreamed that she would find true love. Benjamin was a successful rancher who needed a bride. From her letters, Mary seemed the perfect catch. However, since she arrived the ranch had lurched from one disaster to the next. Can Benjamin sort out the problems with the criminals that are threatening his livelihood. Can Mary find any evidence of her missing father? And can love bloom in the dry and arid desert? The Dakota Brides Heart Penny Smith was penniless and alone in the world. She parents had died some years before and left her with nothing. Her job gave her enough to pay the rent. But most of the time she wished it didnt because Penny rented a room from a horrible landlord that wanted a lot more than just her rent money. She knew she had to escape and after laughing about the idea of mail order brides. She decided that she herself would become one. She was going to marry a handsome, loving cowboy. Harry was the cowboy that Penny wrote to. He was a rancher that was always up against one problem or another. On the day of Pennys arrival his cattle start being hit by a strange illness. An illness that doesnt just threaten the cattle, but the whole ranch and his new marriage to his mail order bride.
