

Educating for a Culture of Peace

What could be more timely than a book that advocates we teach the skills and knowledge students need to both live peacefully in the world and promote peace through their actions? After all, children are exposed to violence dozens of times daily, whether in programming targeted to their age groups, evening news carrying the latest casualties of war and murder, or video games that trivialize cruelty. That's why Riane Eisler and Ron Miller have joined with thirteen other proponents for peace education, including famed children's troubadour Raffi, to present a crucial collection of essays that will help you create instructional practices and lessons that model the tools students need to turn aside culturally conditioned predilections toward domination and violence and, instead, embrace ideals that enable them to transform their relationships through a belief in compassion, caring, respect, and diversity. This vitally important book includes not only a strong rationale for why teaching for peace is utterly necessary, but also specific chapters dealing with issues that teachers encounter every day, including: using peaceful instead of violent language emphasizing social justice developing students' vision of peace through their own sense of integrity. Grounded in today's cultural realities, Educating for a Culture of Peace asks you to think globally, act locally, and fine-tune your practice by instilling every lesson you teach with the basic humane values that lead to greater interpersonal and intercultural understanding. Read Educating for a Culture of Peace and make a concrete contribution to a better world, one peaceful classroom at a time.

A Pathway to a Culture of Peace. Loretta Navarro-Castro & Jasmin Nario-Galace. Center for Peace Education, Miriam College. Quezon City, Philippines v. 2010 seeks to promote quality basic education that is grounded upon the universal values and practice of a culture of peace and non-violence. Such a task must that advocates we teach the skills and knowledge students need to both live peacefully in the world and promote peace. UNESCO and Education for a Culture of Peace: a transdisciplinary approach[1]. Education and Peace, Belgrade. Nov. 11-14, 2004. Dr. Marshall Conley[2]. education and culture of peace. 1. EDUCATING FOR A CIVILIZATION OF PEACE 2. CHALLENGES BEFORE HUMANITY IN I am continually astounded and dismayed by the persistence of murderous violence in the world. Humanity seems to be trapped in a deepeningThe overall goal of this Study Unit on education for a culture of peace in a gender perspective is to assist teachers in their efforts to educate caring. Part 1 discusses different paradigms of peace education. Iram (Chapter 1) refers to tolerance, pluralism and peace as the basis for a culture ofEditorial Reviews. About the Author. YAACOV IRAM is Professor of Comparative and Buy Educating Toward a Culture of Peace (Peace Education): Read Kindle Store Reviews - .Education for a Culture of Peace and Co-Existence. Silvia Guetta. Introduction nal welfare, broad education, cultural richness, self-actualisation, and invol-.Examines the overlapping aims, values, and concepts in peace and environmental education. Acknowledging the dual notions of danger and opportunity thatPromoting a culture of peace and non-violence in Africa through education for peace and conflict prevention. Phase 1: Mapping Final Report. 2013. Disclaimer.Towards a Culture of Peace. Teacher Education for Peace in Middle Eastern Countries. Part I. Handbook for Workshop Facilitators. Developed by Irma-KaarinaEducating for a Culture of Peace [Riane Eisler, Ron Miller] on . FREE shipping on qualifying offers. What could be more timely than a book thatBuilding a culture of peace in your school essentially means striving to manifest peace education in action and behaviour in daily life. A key component of peaceA Pathway to a Culture of Peace. Loreta Navarro-Castro. Jasmin Nario-Galace. Center for Peace Education, Miriam College. Quezon City, Philippines. 2008Editor(s): Laura Finley, Barry University. Robin Cooper, Nova Southeastern University. Published 2006. This volume on Education towards a Culture of PeaceREVIEW. EDUCATING FOR A CULTURE OF PEACE. Louisa Greathouse Amador* Luz Anyela Morales Quintero. * Benemerita Universidad Autonoma deEducation curricula designed to promote qualitative values, attitudes and behaviours of a culture of peace, including peaceful conflict-resolution, dialogue,